Transfer to a Wheelchair — Scenario Dialogue

Can-do: Guide a resident to stand and move safely into a wheelchair, cueing and encouraging them step by step.

1 · Dialogue & Why — 会話

Hana (caregiver)

山田さん、車いすに 移りましょうか。

Yamada-san, shall we move to the wheelchair?

Why: 移る = 'to move (from one seat to another)' — the exact verb for a transfer (移乗). ～ましょうか invites the resident to do it WITH you, respecting their autonomy. Announce the move before you start.

Yamada-san (resident)

はい、お願いします。

Yes, please.

Why: The resident agrees and invites your help with お願いします. Only transfer when they've agreed — consent first, always.

Hana (caregiver)

では、ゆっくり 立ちましょう。 わたしの 肩に つかまって ください。

Then let's stand up slowly. Please hold onto my shoulder.

Why: 立ちましょう = 'let's stand up'. つかまる = 'to hold on / grab'; 肩につかまってください = 'please hold onto my shoulder' — giving them something safe to grip. ゆっくり keeps it safe. Give ONE clear cue at a time.

Yamada-san (resident)

よいしょ。

(with effort) Up we go.

Why: よいしょ is the sound Japanese people make with physical effort (like 'heave-ho' / 'here we go'). Hearing it tells you the resident is putting in effort — a natural cue that the movement is happening.

Hana (caregiver)

そうです、上手ですよ。 ゆっくりで 大丈夫です。

That's it — you're doing great. Slowly is just fine.

Why: そうです = 'that's right'; 上手ですよ = 'you're good at it / doing well' — encouragement keeps the resident confident and cooperative. ゆっくりで大丈夫 removes pressure. Praise every small success.

Hana (caregiver)

体を こちらに 向けて ください。 手すりを 持って、ゆっくり 座りましょう。

Please turn your body this way. Hold the handrail and let's sit down slowly.

Why: 向(む)ける = 'to turn (something) toward'; 体(からだ)をこちらに向(む)けてください = 'turn your body this way' — こちら ('this way', polite for こっち) points them toward the chair. Then 座(すわ)りましょう = 'let's sit down'. Guide the turn, then the sit — one step at a time.

Yamada-san (resident)

ありがとう。 楽(らく)に なりました。

Thank you. That's more comfortable now.

Why: 楽(らく) = 'comfortable / at ease'; 楽(らく)になりました = 'it became comfortable' (楽(らく) + に + なる, 'to become ~'). A sign the transfer went well and the resident is settled.

Hana (caregiver)

よかったです。 むりを しないで くださいね。 何(なに)か あったら 呼(よ)んでくださいね。

Good. Please don't overdo it. Call me if you need anything.

Why: よかったです = 'I'm glad (that's good)'. むりをする = 'to overdo / push too hard'; むりをしないでください = 'please don't overexert yourself' — a caring close that protects the resident from straining. 〜ないでください again for a gentle warning. 呼(よ)んでくださいね (Ep 4) leaves the door open: a resident who knows they can call you will not try a risky move alone.
