Bathing Assistance — Warm, Safe, and Comfortable — Scenario Dialogue

Can-do: Invite a resident to bathe, check the water temperature safely, pour from the feet up, and confirm they're comfortable — preventing chills and dizziness.

1 · Dialogue & Why — 会話

Hana (caregiver)

田中さん、今から お風呂に 入りましょうか。

Tanaka-san, shall we take a bath now?

Why: お風呂に入る = 'to take a bath' (literally 'enter the bath') — 入る, not 'take'. The honorific お on 風呂 is standard and polite. 入りましょうか invites rather than orders. Before this line, you'd already have warmed the changing room and bathroom — cold rooms are dangerous (see ヒートショック below).

Tanaka-san (resident)

ええ、久しぶりね。楽しみだわ。

Yes, it's been a while. I'm looking forward to it.

Why: 久しぶり = 'it's been a while / long time no —', a very common phrase. 楽しみ = 'something to look forward to'. A bath is often the highlight of a resident's day, so your warm, unhurried manner matters as much as the safety steps.

Hana (caregiver)

お湯の 温度は いかがですか。熱くないですか。

How's the water temperature? Not too hot?

Why: This is a safety line. You test the water on your OWN forearm first, then let the resident confirm — お湯 (hot water), 温度 (temperature). いかがですか is the polite 'how is it?'. Aim for about 38–40°C. Water that feels fine to you can scald thin, older skin, so the resident's own check comes last.

Tanaka-san (resident)

ちょうど いいわ。気持ち いい。

It's just right. It feels good.

Why: ちょうどいい = 'just right' — perfect for temperature, size, timing. 気持ちいい = 'feels good / pleasant'. These are the words you're listening for; if instead you hear 熱い (hot) or the resident tenses up, you adjust the water immediately.

Hana (caregiver)

では、足から お湯を かけますね。手すりに つかまってください。

Then I'll pour water starting from your feet. Please hold the handrail.

Why: 足から ('from the feet') is the safe order — pouring warm water from the feet upward lets the body and blood pressure adjust gradually. Pouring hot water on the chest or head first can cause a sudden shock. And 〜かけますね announces the action before you do it, as always. In the bathroom the floor is wet, so the handrail cue (手すりに つかまってください, from Ep 4) comes with every movement.

Hana (caregiver)

ご自分(じぶん)で 洗(あら)えますか。手伝(てつだ)いましょうか。

Can you wash yourself, or shall I help?

Why: Always offer the resident the chance to do what they can — ご自分(じぶん)で ('by yourself', with honorific ご) 洗(あら)えますか (potential 'can you wash?'). Letting them wash where able supports 自立支援(じりつしえん) and dignity. You offer help (手伝(てつだ)いましょうか) as a choice, not by taking over.

Hana (caregiver)

のぼせて いませんか。長(なが)く 入(はい)りすぎないように しましょうね。

Are you feeling dizzy? Let's not stay in too long, okay.

Why: のぼせる = 'to get dizzy / overheated in a bath' — a key word. Long, hot soaks make elderly residents faint, so you check often and keep the soak short. 〜すぎる = 'to do 〜 too much' (入(はい)りすぎ = stay in too long); 〜ないように = 'so as not to 〜'.

Hana (caregiver)

湯冷(ゆざ)めしないように、早(はや)く 拭(ふ)きましょうね。

Let's dry off quickly so you don't catch a chill.

Why: 湯冷(ゆざ)め = 'catching a chill after a bath' as the body cools — a real risk for the elderly. So after the bath you dry (拭(ふ)く) and dress quickly and keep them warm. 〜ないように = 'so that 〜 doesn't happen'. Finish by offering water: bathing is dehydrating.
