Admitting a New Resident — Welcome, Orient, Reassure — Scenario Dialogue

Can-do: Welcome a new resident on their first day, show them their room and the call button, explain the daily routine, and reassure both them and their family.

1 · Dialogue & Why — 会話

Hana (caregiver)

山田さん、よく いらっしゃいました。本日から ご入所ですね。

Yamada-san, welcome. You move in with us today.

Why: First contact sets the tone for months. よく いらっしゃいました is the warm 'welcome / thank you for coming' (尊敬語 for 来ました). ご入所 = 'admission / moving in' — the word every care home uses for this day.

Hana (caregiver)

介護スタッフの ハナと 申します。

I'm Hana, one of the care staff.

Why: 申します is the humble form of 'my name is' (謙譲語 for 言う). Name yourself the moment you meet a new resident — a frightened newcomer needs to know who is looking after them before anything else happens.

Yamada-san (new resident)

はじめまして。少し 心配です。

Nice to meet you. I'm a little anxious.

Why: 心配です = 'I'm worried / anxious'. Almost every new resident says some version of this — a new bed, strangers, and no family in the building. Hear it as information, not as a complaint: it tells you exactly what your next sentence has to do.

Hana (caregiver)

ゆっくりで 大丈夫ですよ。私が そばに いますから、安心してくださいね。

Take it slowly — that's fine. I'll be right beside you.

Why: そうですよね accepts the feeling before answering it — never argue a worry away. Then two things a newcomer needs: no pressure (ゆっくりで 大丈夫、Ep 1) and a named person who is nearby (そばに います から、Ep 7). 〜から = 'so / because', giving the REASON they can relax.

Hana (caregiver)

では、居室へ ご案内しますね。お荷物は 私が お持ちします。

Well then, let me show you to your room. I'll carry your bag.

Why: 居室 = the resident's own room (the care-home word; お部屋 is the friendly one you use with them). ご案内します = 'I'll show you the way'. お持ちします is humble 'I will carry it' — 尊敬語 and 謙譲語 are how you show respect to someone older on a day that already feels undignified.

Hana (caregiver)

こちらが お部屋です。何か あったら、この ボタンを 押して 呼んでくださいね。

This is your room. If anything comes up, press this button to call me.

Why: Show the call button on the first day, before anything else in the room — it is the one thing that must not be discovered in an emergency. 何か あったら = 'if anything happens' (〜たら conditional). Point at it, and if you can, have them press it once so their hand knows where it is.

---

Yamada-san (new resident)

ありがとう。安心しました。毎日の 予定が 気に なります。

Thank you. That's a relief. I'm wondering about the daily schedule.

Why: 安心しました = 'I felt relieved' (Ep 8) — the reassurance landed. 気に なります = 'it's on my mind / I'm wondering about it' (Ep 14): a soft, indirect way of asking. Residents rarely demand information; catch the softly-asked question and answer it fully.

---

Hana (caregiver)

一日の 日課を ご説明しますね。朝は 七時に 起きて、ご飯は 八時です。

Let me explain the day. You get up at seven, breakfast at eight.

Why: 日課 = 'the daily routine'. Knowing the shape of the day is what turns a strange building into a place you live. Give the actual times, and keep it to two or three anchors — the rest can wait until tomorrow. 起きて links the clauses (〜て form).

---

Hana (caregiver)

ご家族にも、何か ありましたら ご連絡いたします。どうぞ ご安心ください。

We'll contact your family if anything happens. Please rest assured.

Why: Admission is two handovers at once — the resident and the family. ご連絡いたします (humble 'we will contact you', Ep 11) is the promise that lets a daughter go home, and ご安心ください is the set phrase for 'please rest assured'.

---

Hana (caregiver)

山田さんの ペースで 大丈夫ですよ。

You can go at your own pace, Yamada-san.

Why: Close the first day by handing it back to him. 〜さんの ペースで (Ep 14) says the home will move at his speed, not the other way round — the single most reassuring thing a new resident can hear, and the opposite of how an institution usually feels.
